New Doors Opening

It is every artist dream, that their work will be used to change the world or someones life. I have already accomplished that many times in my life already but what is coming next is beyond anything that I could have ever dreamed or have ever thought possible. God is on the move in a BIG way here in South Africa and truly walls, lies and misconceptions will be blown down with the new movement that is coming.

If you have noticed on my blog (www.behind-the-lens.org) I have been out doing a lot more shoots lately as that is to an increase of more demand on my department. We have some HUGE and amazing opportunities that I am currently making videos for and with in the next several weeks you will see first hand how much God is using you to help me serve the people out here in Qwa Qwa South Africa.

Im excited beyond all measures for what is coming as I am able share voices of the people here. Voices that will speak to worlds away for people to hear and to experience the true voice of Africa. A voice that shares no lie, no misconception but a voice of truth, love, determination and prosperity.

Its is not only important for me to stay strong and focused it is important that you who are partnering with me, to be on the same page. So let us stay strong together, build each other up and stay focused on the new journey ahead. Please be in prayer for this new season as this really is the start of many new things to come that God has laid out for us. Remember you can see everything for yourself at www.behind-the-lens.org. Thank you for your continual support and get ready for what is coming.

Prayer Request

- Finances: Please keep in prayer all my supporters, that they continue to walk along side me in this mission. Also please pray for favor for them, that they reap from what they have sowed into this ministry. With that, I ask for specific prayer for all my financial needs, specifically $10,000 for a vehicle.
- Focus: Be in prayer about then new opportunities that are in motion and help me stay visitant on the goal ahead.
- Campaign: A campaign will be launching soon for my finances and also other areas of my ministry. Please be in prayer about that and also people invite me to come back and speak as well as new opportunities for me to come into my life.

In Him,
Matt Moline
